Dear Sir or Madam

The turning point in my life was my visit to the United Kingdom early last year. This event sparked in me a desire to learn more about the history and current affairs of this fascinating country. The desire to study politics in the UK crystallized when I visited the Westminster Palace. The many weeks I spent reading about the history of England reinforced my belief that I would like to not only learn more about the UK, but to become an important part of this world.

I took part in a contest testing knowledge of England. I won this contest and was awarded with a trip to London where I had the opportunity to see the capitol of the United Kingdom once more. This visit confirmed my conviction that I would like to become a contributing member of this fascinating group of interwoven organizations of diplomats and politicians. After completion of my studies, I would like to work in one of the legal bodies of the EU Parliament.

I am in my first year of studies at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków. I am studying British history and politics. The program of studies in politics offered by my chosen UK University corresponds well to my actual education. Although I have studied History in my high school, the course encompassed English literature and history. The opportunity to study in the United Kingdom will enable me to further my knowledge of my chosen field of studies in political science.

During my studies I was a member of the academic club which provided me with the opportunity to learn more about political science. I have been involved as a volunteer in the largest party in Poland called Platforma Obywatelska. I also took part in a country-wide contest regarding the political structures of Europe which included such diverse topics as the United Nations, the political situation in Poland, United Kingdom and France. Learning about the history and governments of Europe has been quite fascinating for me. It is my goal to become a part of this political world which will be possible after completion of my studies in the United Kingdom.

Yours faithfully
